SUFFRAGETTES
'HISS AT TAFT

WASHINGTON, D.C., Apr. 14.—The President of the United States was sharply hissed today when he addressed a woman's suffrage convention and merely intimated that he was not in sympathy with its objects. The extraordinary demonstration was the sensation of the day in Washington. When the President, in guarded language, indicated that he was not a strong advocate of granting suffrage to women, the convention broke into a bitter demonstration, and the Chief Executive had to pause while hisses interrupted his address.

Taft appeared on the platform of the convention in response to an invitation from the leaders of the suffrage movement. He was very warmly greeted. But when, in the course of his address, he remarked that he was not "altogether in sympathy" with the woman's suffrage movement, a loud chorus of hissing drowned his speech. The enthusiasm of the suffragettes led them to a painful demonstration of disrespect for the Chief Magistrate of the Nation.

President Taft did not express strong opposition to woman's suffrage, and had not gone farther than to mildly express himself as out of sympathy with their movement, when the outbreak occurred.

NEW YORK SCANDAL UP FOR PROBE.

ALBANY, N. Y., Apr. 14.—As a result of the stinging message sent to the Legislature by Governor Hughes, declaring that the legislative scandals were a disgrace to the State, a resolution was passed in the Senate today calling for a thorough investigation. The matter to be investigated extend over nearly ten years, the bribes Allds was found guilty of having taken having been paid in 1901. Senator Conger, who exposed Allds, was shown to have had knowledge of the bribery during all the intervening years and to have made no exposure until he sought to defeat Allds for the Speakership. This forced Conger's resignation as a member of the Legislature.

CONGRESS WANTS SUGAR TRUST INFORMATION.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Apr. 11.—Congress today passed a resolution requesting President Taft to furnish information regarding the progress of the sugar trusts prosecutions, if furnishing of such information is not incompatible with public interests.

Congressional investigation of the frauds has been withheld in accordance with the recommendations in Taft's regular message, in which he declared that a Congressional investigation might interfere with criminal prosecutions. The House today discussed the progress of the cases and decided to call upon the executive for information as to what was being done.

WOULD CONSERVE NATIONAL CAPITAL

FINANCIER J. J. HILL MAKES POWERFUL SPEECH AGAINST THE INCREASE OF PUBLIC DEBT.

ST. PAUL.—James J. Hill, addressing the Minnesota conservation congress, and referring to conservation of the national capital, which he places next in importance to the conservation of land, said:

"The people of the United States inherited from its founders a wholesome tradition against debt, which is only now disappearing from the conduct of national affairs. This, together with the enormous resources at our command and the consequent ability of our people to pay increasing taxes without distress, has kept our national debt at a moderate figure. Until the time of the Spanish war and the Panama canal it decreased. It now tends to rise, concealed under the polite fiction of certificates of indebtedness to cover treasury deficits.

"Leaving out the debts of counties, municipalities and school districts, the aggregate debt of all the states and the territories, less sinking funds assets, was $274,745,722 in 1889; in 1899 it was $211,219,817, and in 1902 it was $234,908,573. The decrease for the first decade was 23.1 per cent and the increase for the 12 years prior to 1902 was 11.2 per cent. The figures down to 1910 outside of and in addition to the national debt, would probably show an increase of $1,250,000,000 to $1,500,000,000 for the last 20 years and a grand total of over $2,250,000,000—about double what it was in 1890."

"The phenomenal increase of public expenditures is one of the causes of the increase in prices now disturbing the people."

He ascribed the tariff as one of the contributing causes of existing conditions, and continued:

"Combinations which are actually in restraint of trade, which have monopolized their field and are either controlled by a common secret management or a secret agreement to maintain exorbitant charges, are partly responsible. If the operations of these had been followed with the same interest by the public and checked with the same rigor by state and nation that are displayed by agitation against railroads the country would not be so stupefied as it is today by a great hardship or so bewildered about the remedy."
